What Providers Should Know About African American and Black Family Caregivers

There is no uniform ethnicity, culture, language, and/or experience among those who identify as African American/Black.
(Kusow, 2014)

- There are distinctions within “African American” and between “African American” and “Black” that have cultural and linguistic significance.
  - A US-born person with African descent is considered African American
  - A majority of African immigrants identify with their respective ethnicities of origin
  - Afro-Cubans, Afro-Caribbeans, Afro-Brazilians, Afro-Haitians, and Afro-Latino people may or may not identify with the term “African American”

HEALTH DISPARITIES

- African American and Black people have a greater risk for heart disease, stroke, high blood pressure, Alzheimer’s/dementia, and diabetes.

- African American and Black caregivers are more likely to provide care for someone who has a long-term/chronic physical condition (NAC, AARP, 2015).

- Amidst health and socioeconomic disparities, African American/Black families remain resilient.
  - Higher rates of grandparent caregivers (Tang et al., 2015)
  - Complex family structures
  - Multiple caregivers
  - Familism: defined as a social structure where the needs of the family are more important and take precedence over the needs of any family members

CULTURAL COMMITMENT TO CARE

- African American/Black caregivers reported that “caring for ill or disabled family members was seen as a responsibility (Scharlach et al., 2006).
  - Fulfilled cultural norms
  - Maintained cultural continuity
  - Strengthened family ties

- On average, African American/Black caregivers agree that cultural obligation is a reason they provide care. However, this can lead to challenges.
  - African American/Black caregivers were more likely to be women, younger, and “sandwiched” between caring for more than one person (NAC, AARP, 2015)
  - Grandparent caregivers are disproportionately women, younger, less educated, and living in poverty, representing a highly vulnerable population (Minkler et al., 2005)
  - More likely to utilize informal support networks, such as religious organizations
HOW CAN PROVIDERS BETTER SUPPORT AFRICAN AMERICAN AND BLACK FAMILY CAREGIVERS?

- Recruit, promote, and support a diverse interdisciplinary workforce that understands/represents the culture of the community
  - Allows for easier communication between hospital case managers and home liaisons
  - More opportunities to identify caregivers and to deliver effective caregiving training

- Development of culturally and linguistically competent in-office materials to deliver information such as medication management and caregiving training
  - Ensure that materials are written at a 5th grade reading level or lower
  - Include pictures that reflect African American older adults and families

- Identify and include relevant family members in person-centered care planning
  - Revise Patient Demographic Forms and/or Adult History forms to identify whether a patient is proving care for a friend or family member
  - Expand your organization’s definition of “family” to include friends, neighbors, and others outside of the traditional family structure

- Utilize traditional modes of contact/outreach in identification and promoting supportive services, education, and training (AARP, 2018; Navaie, 2011)
  - In-person meetings
